Your agent connects once. Then it finds and adds tools itself.

What a person does instead of pasting text into their agent. Example: Claude connected to an Agent Handshake hub; Lumen Video is a fictional tool.

Connect once: 5 clicks, about 30 seconds | Every new tool after that: 0 or 1 click | No pasting, keys or card | $0 until you approve

ONCE

1 Click “Connect your agent” — 2 clicks

From the hub, or the Add to my agent button on any tool's site. Pick your app: Open in Claude.

2 Your app adds the hub — 2 clicks

Claude's own Add connector box opens already filled in. Click Add, then Connect. This is the only trip to settings.

3 Approve one screen — 1 click

Find and try tools, free trials on their own (you can untick it), $0 spend limit. The tool you came for comes along.

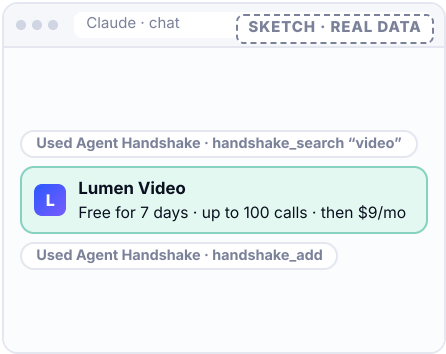

EVERY TIME YOU NEED SOMETHING NEW

4 Just ask — 0 clicks

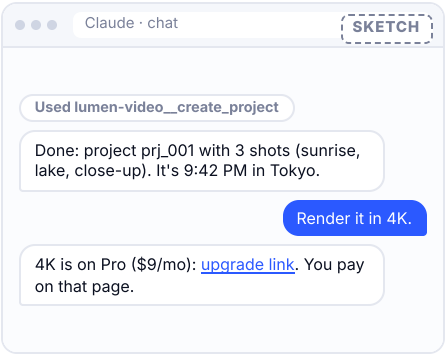

You ask for something your agent can't do yet. No setup, nothing to install.

5 Your agent finds a tool — 0 clicks

It searches the hub's catalog, reads each tool's terms, and starts the free trial.

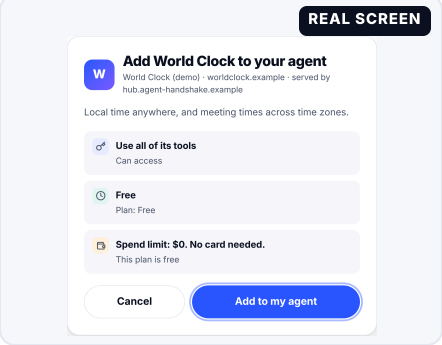

6 ...and does the job — 0 clicks

Every call is checked against the tool's plan and metered. Paid features return a link for you.

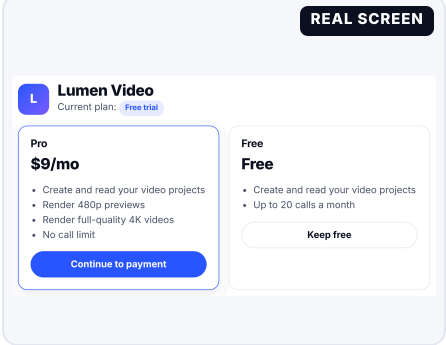

YOU STAY IN CONTROL

7 Or add from the catalog — 1 click

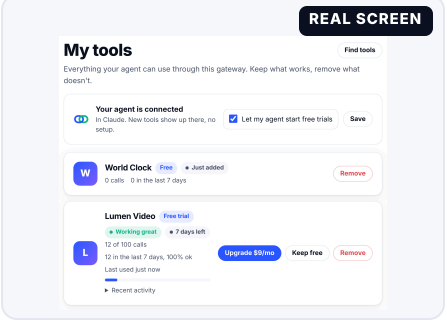

Any tool's button, or the hub's catalog: one click and it's in your agent. No trip to Claude's settings.

8 Paid plans need you — your choice

The link from your agent opens this page. Pro goes to a normal Stripe checkout, never the chat.

9 My tools: keep or remove — anytime

Every tool on one page, with usage labels. Remove ends access at once. Untick free trials anytime.

Once · Every new need · Control

“Real screen” = captured from Agent Handshake v0.2. Sketches show Claude, which looks different in each app. Click counts are for Claude; Claude Code connects with one command. github.com/larvuz2/agent-handshake